Court star urges juniors

HARVEY basketball talent Anton Fimmano was thrilled to meet Melbourne Tigers basketball player Mark Worthington recently at the Eaton Recreation Centre.

Worthington, a former Australind resident, used the opportunity to encourage budding stars to reach their potential during a visit with his family. The South West Academy of Sport's basketball patron led the South Dragons to the 2008/2009 National Basketball League Championship victory before being recruited to the Melbourne Tigers side.

The 16-year-old Harvey teenager, who plays for the Junior Slammers and is one of South West Academy of Sport's scholarship recipients, said it was a privilege to meet Worthington.

"Being originally from the South West he shows how far somebody from a regional area can go if they have the talent and put in the work," he said.

"He's a great patron and an inspiration."
