

Former West Coast Eagles great and current Peel Thunder coach Chris Waterman directs SWAS youngsters at a training meeting last Monday. PICTURES: JAMES WORSFOLD

Football tips from the top

WITH Rob Wiley in precautionary quarantine due to swine flu after travelling to Melbourne it was former West Coast Eagles great and current Peel Thunder coach Chris Waterman who took charge of a specially designed South West Academy of Sport AFL training session last Monday at Hands Oval in Bunbury.

A select handful of talented SWAS footballers put their skills and fitness to the test with Waterman, who ran specialised training and tactics drills.

SWAS football coordinator Mark Skehan organised the meeting which aimed to further educate, train and develop the region's more promising young footballers.

From the Lower South West, Ben Farquar, Riley Hutchinson, Kadogen Combes and Mitchell Muir are part of the SWAS football squad.

Manjimup's Ben Farquar tests his handballing skills during a specialised training session held by Peel Thunder coach Chris Waterman at Hands Oval last Monday.